Denver Debut!

The Elegant Bead has recently relocated to Centennial, CO ( a suburb of Denver) in February 2002. On June 6th, 2002, The Elegant Bead made it's first Denver showing and the preview of the new 2002 Summer Collection. What a wonderful success!

We are still offering the same custom designed jewelry and gift items as before, but we have a new logo and new website! The personal profile is now offered on ~ line to make your wish list a breeze! The Elegant bead also offers Gift Certificates to make your gift ~ giving easier! Custom orders are always welcomed.

Look for the current collections visit www.TheElegantBead.com online. In addition to our fabulous inventory we've always had, we've added a special Motherhood section, along with new Bridal designs and a beautiful headpiece.

The current collection has a wide variety of jewelry to accent your summer wardrobe that's great for either work or play, along with great new fall styles!

Natural Beauties

A stunning natural , mother - of - pearl is now the stone that everyone is raving about. Made from the inner layer of mollusk shells, this iridescent material has a breezy informality and sexiness about it ~ especially this season, as it has been fashioned into playful and sleekly organic shapes. Wear one with white or khaki for a subtle effect, or spotlight it against a backdrop of black to create a bit of shellshock.

Turquoise, the Southwest classic, is a very versatile stone, available from blues to greens, smooth, polished, faceted, or rough cut will still be making a strong appearance.

Fall Savvy

Remember when only losers wore brown? Evidently just as with people, good things come to colors that wait. Of course, it's not just brown. It's mahogany, sable, sandstone and topaz, as well as coffee, espresso, mocha, cinnamon and nutmeg ~ who can resist maple walnut? You maybe surprised at how unexpectedly hip brown looks when paired with pastels like pale pink, and baby blue (red tiger eye looks awesome with rose quartz, and blue calcite). Brown also is extremely compatible with wardrobe basics (navy, gray, and camel) and chic with black. Brown is a great backdrop for opaque stones like jade, coral, and turquoise. (In Style)

In addition to brown being a great staple for fall, flowers will also brighten up the fall season. Thanks to fashions on going romance with romance, designers have planted a sensuous fall flora on everything from long, swirling skirts, to sweaters to wool blazers. Whether applied onto a shoe, printed onto a printed velvet pencil skirt or carved into a necklace, these petals come in rich autumnal palette of burgundies, oranges, and olives. (think garnet, carnelian, and labradorite). (In Style)
